Art Image Research

You may be familiar with the Olga's Gallery website but I would recommend that you all use Artstor instead.

As Olga's Gallery (and the whole ABC Gallery) is a site for the sale of art posters, they do not maintain color corrected reproductions. More often than not, they have low res, over-corrected images and with questionable attribution (Where is the work of art currently? Where did it originate? etc.). Images in Artstor often come directly from the institutions that house the works, saving any confusion.

Please refer to Artstor, as you complete your research: library.artstor.org

The librarians have also put together a guide of additional art resources, found here: brooklyn.sjcny.libguides.com/Art

Once you have searched for an artist by name, there is a Sort by: Date option in the top left of the screen. Once selected, all images will be sorted chronologically, oldest first. This will help you compare an artist’s work over time. See below.

More questions? Ask a librarian! Email bklibrary@sjcny.edu